NYI enables financial services companies to be innovative, resilient, flexible and grow – by utilizing our secure, high availability infrastructure and leveraging our specialist technical teams.

“It’s about the virtualization of services. It’s not outsourcing per se. It’s about choosing partners along the value chain who minimize facilities cost. For instance, hedge funds, buy- and sell-side institutions turn to us for our software expertise, and we in turn engage a company like NYI for their colocation and managed services excellence.

In terms of numbers alone we would be spending 10 times our current rate to replicate internally the superior service NYI has given us in the last five years.”

— NICK SERAFINI, Head of Information Services, Portware

PORTWARE®

“As an industry leader in financial services technology solutions and services, NYI’s technological prowess in meeting customers’ needs was attractive to Alpha Plus. With their team’s help we were able to further expand into other/non-standard services for our own customers. NYI has a well-established, proven record of maintaining availability and allowing 24/7 access.”

— KEVIN DAVIS, Trading Services, Alpha Plus

“NYI has been key to the growth of our business. Their central location in Manhattan’s financial district has not only given us a fault-tolerant, carrier-neutral network environment with cross-connects to wherever our customers want to go, their team is so good and so responsive they were an integral part of our 51% growth rate in the past year.”
